Mike Quick spent nine seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles (1982–1990), where he established himself as one of the franchise’s most dynamic receivers — finishing his career with 6,464 receiving yards, 61 touchdowns, and five consecutive Pro Bowl selections. A three-time Pro Bowler, Quick was one of the top receivers in the NFL during his career. Since 1998, Quick has brought that field-level insight into the broadcast booth as the Eagles’ longtime radio color commentator on WIP-FM, sharing the mic with play-by-play announcer Merrill Reese. A member of the Eagles Hall of Fame since 1995, Quick remains a beloved voice among fans — respected not only for his playing achievements, but for his deep knowledge, passion, and commitment to the team and community. Mike proudly serves on the Board of Directors for First Tee – Greater Philadelphia.

Merrill Reese has been the iconic radio “Voice of the Philadelphia Eagles” since 1977, making him the longest-tenured play-by-play announcer in the NFL. Throughout his career Reese has been joined in the booth by Jim Barniak, Bill Bergey, Stan Walters, and Mike Quick. Reese and Quick have been partners since 1998. Over his decades-long career he’s called countless unforgettable Eagles moments — including their first Super Bowl win in 2018 — and earned high recognition, most recently receiving the 2024 Pete Rozelle Radio-Television Award from the Pro Football Hall of Fame. A lifelong Philadelphian, Reese is cherished by Eagles fans for his unmistakable voice, unwavering passion, and lasting commitment to the team and its community.
